The Military Imbroglio.

The war of the roses is renewed in our State and the important question which is agitating the people is "Have we a Major General amongst us?"

The facts of the case as we understand them are briefly these.—By the decision of the Supreme Court of this State in the "Quo Warranto" against W. W. Brown no officer can hold two military positions which are incompatible. A short time since Major General Brown resigned his commission, and under the statute the senior Brigadier is acting Major General—There are four Brigadiers commissioned in this State, and Brigadier General Greens Commission is older than that of Gen. Gould as is also that of Gen. Barton, but Gen. Gould claims and we think justifiably that both of these officers have forfeited their commissions as Brigadiers by accepting commissions in military companies of the line.

Since Gen. Green has acted as sergeant of the Providence Light Infantry, and as such has drawn pay and been returned on the pay roll by Col. Brown, and Gen. Barton is duly commissioned as Colonel of the Warren Artillery.

In accordance with these views and assuming the position which they warrant Gen. Gould claims to be Senior Brigadier and acting Major General of this State, and as such has issued certain orders which the commander in chief in a very technical and verbose correspondence, requires him to countermand, and claims that Gen. Green is Senior Brigadier and therefore acting Major General. To this, Gen. Gould replies that he still insists on his seniority, and even assuming the Governor's position to be correct, it is impossible for him as Brigadier General to countermand orders issued by him in a superior acting capacity as Major General, "since if the position was originally improperly assumed by him, all his acts, were and are null and void, ab initio."

The Governor has cancelled Gen. Gould's commission as Brigadier General for disobedience of orders, and the General has demanded a court martial.

This is only another instance of Providence against the rival districts, and if the matter is fairly and impartially investigated we have no doubt the result will be favorable to Gen. Gould and the County of Newport.

We annex a poem which was found by our Ship News reporter in the harbour sealed up in a demijohn. It is very spirited.

A DOLEFUL DITTY.

Entitled "A Tempest in a Tea Pot."

BY MR. CALIBAN.

"Little Jack Horner sat in the corner
Eating a Christmas pie,
He put in his thumb and pulled out a plum,
And said 'What a great boy am I!!!!!!'"

A great many years ago, when civilization, the sciences, and military tactics were all in their infancy, it came to pass that a valiant and mighty man of war was chosen Governor, Captain General, and Commander in Chief of the State of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations for the year inuing, (and with-out desiring to disagree, we will here say parenthetically "God save the State of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations.") We do not at present recollect the name of this immortal and well known warrior; but he filled the chair of State with great courage, emphasis, and Jefferson's Manual. And it came to pass, moreover, that this great General surrounded himself with small satellites, who were called Lemon-aids to his Excellency, on account of their fixed regard for Temperance and sobriety; and they were continually walking and riding to and fro, like Satans, in the book of Job, through the length and breadth of the little State, bearing messages of war to all the people, so that it is said a respected Quaker in the town of Gloucester received "Order No. 2910, from Head Quarters," and since a copy of it is still preserved by his descendants, I annex it:

HEAD & QUARTERS R. Y. E. MILLINERY, Sept.—, A. D. 18—.

ORDER No. 2910.

To WILLIAM PENN: Sir:—
I am instructed by his Excellency, the Governor Captain General and Commander in Chief of the State of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations for the year ensuing, to notify you that you are not Major General nor Major General, nor Major anything else; and unless you cease being a Quaker and buy a gun forthwith, you never will be. You are therefore required to countermand everything that you have ever done in your life forthwith, or his Excellency will change your name.

I am, Sir,
Yours affectionately,
JOHN SMITH,
Adjutant General, &c.

P. S. The Governor carries too many guns, and will sell you one if you wish, at just what it is worth, and will charge it.

And it came to pass, that the Governor's mind was greatly exercised because his instructions were not obeyed, and he arose in his wrath and arrayed himself in a squire's cap and a fixed baggonet, and said he "would let people know that he was Governor;" and in pursuance of this praiseworthy and original idea, he sat himself upon the State House steps at the hour of Meridian, clad in battle array as aforesaid, to wit, in a Coat of Arms of the State, and after proclamation was duly made, he called all the people to order a great many times, in a great variety of ways, and then put a perpetual motion to the assemblage by insinuations, four words at a time, and when this was concluded, tradition saith that he sang the following mournful Ballad to a plain tune, accompanying himself on a penny whistle:

BALLAD.

Come listen all good citizens!
To my plaintive song;
I know I am doing right
When I'm not doing wrong.
I feel myself excited
Just maybe I'm seen,
All that I could that glitters,
Lord! keep my memory Green!

Chorus.—
God save the Constitution, &c.

Citizens.—(Sung by all the people at once.)
God save the Constitution
And the Militia Law,
Rhode Island is a little State,
But I am Governor.

I'll tell to you a mournful tale,
All in pathetic verse,
Which I have been much better,
I wish I had been no worse,
I am a mighty man of war,
A most tremendous gun,
The Legislature I change my name,
To Scott or Washington.

Chorus.—
God save the Constitution, &c.

They made a hundred Generals
And thou and I too
And all the rest were Officers
All clad in gold and blue—
They looked like little men
In brass buttons and stars,
And the Prince was the mother
Of a thousand sons of Mars.

Chorus.—
God save the Constitution, &c.

The boys all wore percussion caps
And drank gun powder tea,
The soldiers charged bay-onets,
And tripped canny—
Was taught in all the Public Schools
The teachers weren't so stiff—
For if they pulled the strings up
They knew that they'd go off.
But every thing must have a head
With brains to make it go
And I was Captain General
All—er—I—fussy—oh!

Chorus.—
God save the Constitution, &c.

I bought a warlike Charger
And I charged him to the State
And I mounted all my Lemon-aids
(I had some six or eight);
I practiced drilling, 'twas a bore
All in my golden path,
With cabbage heads for Warriors,
And well shaped sword of lance.

Chorus.—
God save the Constitution, &c.

And to the work went bravely on
And things were done up à la mode
Most generally that is to say,
Until there came to town
A rumour, that a Yeoman
Who was only Brigadier—
Said he was Major General
And other things as queer.

Chorus.—
God save the Constitution, &c.

All at that very instant
My cool was up in arms;
And I was up there too, myself
To guard the State from harm,
I felt my great importance,
As the mountain did the mouse
And my Lemon-aids were conveying
Both the Senate and the House.

Chorus.—
God save the Constitution, &c.

Then I marched across my office
As a statey warrior tramp,
And I sent a thousand orders
To my valiant Lemon-aids camps.
I bid them don their soldier suits
For battle's fierce array—
I'll have 'em know to-day,
I mounted my official stile,
As brave as brave could be,
Whistled the "Battle of the Pragne,"
And then—went home to tea.

Chorus.—
God save the Constitution, &c.

The morning burst upon the earth
Like a streak of lightning;
I had not slept, the clouds all seemed
Like little red hot cannon ball.
Looked like a red hot cannon ball.
I shouldered my good cane,
Marched my bristling thoughts and then
Charged, bayonets on my brain
My spine an iron ram-rod seemed
My breast a brazen shield,
My right hand held a flaming sword,
My moon a battle field.

Chorus.—
God save the Constitution, &c.

Look at the flaming comet,
Now it flames so high,
Like a celestial epaulette
Pinned on the azure sky,
How soldierlike and brave it looks
The little stars grow pale,
'Tis like myself, only it has
No moral to its tale.

Chorus.—
God save the Constitution, &c.

I sent for my brave Adjutant,
(A valorous man was he);
I wrote a letter and he signed
My name to it for me.
I told the haughty yeoman
Words I couldn't find a page or
To think himself a Major
General of our brave militia
And that 'twas no a fix
Just like old Benedict Arnold
In the days of '76.

Chorus.—
God save the Constitution, &c.

I waited for the answer
And the answer came along;
He said I was a man of mind
But was most always wrong
So with dignity I issued
(Order that thousand and one
And sent it by an armed man
And Sheriff Nickerson,
The Brigadier is now a mere
His head has toppled off,
I'll make him know I'm Governor
(God people, don't you laugh.)

Chorus.—
God save the Constitution, &c.

And then I arose this warrior man,
And I did his soldier's hat,
Clutched his brass sword and turning round
Said "What d'ye think of that?"

Chorus.—
God save the Constitution, &c.

All men are soldiers naturally,
And it would be a sin,
When such a man is Governor,
To put him out again.
No, not his colors to the mast,
Let him forever set
Pinned in the great official chair,
With a fixed baggonet.

Chorus.—
God save the Constitution, &c.

LOCAL NEWS.

VILLAINOUS PRACTICE.—Some satanic miscreants have commenced in our city what has been practiced in others by the same class of persons—throwing vitriol upon ladies' dresses in the streets. We can conceive of nothing more cowardly and devilish, inasmuch as there is no excuse for it, except it be the gratification of a depraved nature. The man who steals, robs or commits burglary, does so in the hope of gain, but the other, while he inflicts an injury upon his victim, gains nothing himself. A little pay in their own coin, or in other words, a dose of their own physic, would benefit this class of gentry, in the shape of an application of the liquid to their own persons. It will be seen that the Mayor has offered a reward of one hundred dollars for their detection, which we hope will be the means of bringing them to justice.

A CHANCE TO MAKE MONEY.—A member of No. 2 Engine Company, of this city authorizes us to say that the sum of five hundred dollars is stowed away in their engine house for the Newport Engine Company who will beat the Two's in playing. We have nothing to offer, further than that any company feeling confident of being able to beat the Two's, will have a good chance to earn five hundred dollars in a short space of time.

THE SIDEWALKS.—The sidewalks in several places on Thames Street are being repaired. This has long been needed nearly the whole length of the street, and we hope will become general. The expense would be very small compared with the improved appearance it would give to the street.

THE INSTITUTE.—Atlantic Hall was filled to overflowing last night, on the occasion of the opening exercises of the Institute, consisting of a lecture by President Sears, and a Poem by Hon. Wm. M. Rodman, Mayor of Providence. Hundreds went away, not being able to gain admission, for the crowd.

EXECUTION OF A CLEVERMAN FOR WIFE MURDER. A clergyman named Turkey was executed in Knappa Co. Va., recently, for the murder of his wife. On the gallows he made a speech, attributing the commission of the crime to his intemperance. After speaking he requested that "Jerusalem, my happy home," might be sung; he said that many present had sung it with him on many happy occasions, and started the tune himself. While singing, he called his aged father on the platform, threw his arms about his neck, interrupted his singing only long enough to say "farewell," and then continued to take the lead. His mother, with his little daughter, came forward at his request, and he shook hands with her, and took his little one in his arms, kissed it and all without seeming to be interrupted. So also with a brother. They all left the ground before he fell. He also, while singing, shook hands with some twenty others; among them, two of the brothers of his murdered wife. He had a smile on his face most of the time. There were but a few dry eyes on the ground during the scene. When they ceased singing, he turned about and said, "Sherrif, I am ready to die," and soon after the rope was cut, and he was launched into eternity.

The trial of Seneca Bradt, charged with being accessory to the burning of a flax mill, has just nonsectentially terminated at Troy, N. Y. The statute defines the crime of arson in the third degree, for which the prisoner was indicted, to be the burning of a building for the manufacture of woolen goods, paper, iron, or other fabric; and it was contended by the prisoner's counsel, that, as flax was not a fabric, therefore the statute did not apply to the burning of a flax mill. The court held the point good and the prisoner was discharged.

A suit has been commenced in the Supreme Court at Boston, by the Market Bank, to recover from the Granite Bank $5,000, which the plaintiff Bank alleges was received from the defendant Bank. Some two years since, a bag purporting to contain $5,000 in gold passed through several banks. At the Market Bank it was opened, and found to contain about $6 worth of copper. The questions to be tried are, where and when was the gold changed, and is the Granite Bank responsible to the Market Bank for the $5,000?

A company has been formed among the merchants of Boston, for the purpose of engaging in the whale fishery in the North Pacific, by means of small vessels of from 100 to 200 tons burthen. The plan proposed is to establish a depot and agency at Port Townsend, in Washington Territory, where vessels can land their oil and obtain their supplies without being absent from the fish ground as long as it now takes to run down to the Sandwich Islands to recruit.

Reliable advices from Constantinople state, that the Cassian Pasha has requested the Porte to write a particular letter of thanks to the American government, for its kindness to Mohammed Pasha, and for its offers of assistance in contracting for the construction of a ship of war, &c.

The receipts of cotton at Galveston, Texas, for the year ending Sept. 1st, show an increase of 48,428 bales over the previous year.

A statue of Virgin a Dure, the first white person born in America, is on exhibition in Boston, and much commended.

W. R. Merwin, of St. Louis, while traveling in Canada with a negro servant, was interrupted at Chatham, C. W., by a gang of negroes and white men, and his servant taken from him and borne away. The servant made every effort in his power to remain with his master.

Improved Fire and Water Proof
Felt and Composition Roofs

THE subscribers would respectfully call the attention of persons building, or about to build, to the above composition, which they have used to the entire satisfaction of many persons in this community who have lately put roofs upon old, as well as new buildings of every description. These roofs have been pronounced by Architects, Builders, and others who have a knowledge of their merits, to be of greater durability, and to be possessed of fire and resisting properties to an extent beyond that of any roof now in use. The materials of which these roofs are composed are not affected by temperature. They will not expand or contract with heat and cold, like roofs of iron or tin. The cost is much less than any other fire proof roof in use. They are not affected by the jar of machinery. If in case of injury, no roof is so easily and cheaply repaired. If we not only state these facts, but can substantiate them, by referring to those who have patronized us for the last two years, and would request all those who are about to put on new roofs, either to new or old houses, to call upon us before looking elsewhere, when we think they will be satisfied that we can furnish them with the best roof now in use.
